Women of a Certain Age Conference..for women in the middle of their lives,

Will be held Saturday, October 8

In Napa Valley at the Villagio Inn in Yountville, California.

(August 22, 2005) Napa, CA.....When you ask, “What do I want to do with the rest of my life?” Do you wish you had an answer but come up short? Women of a Certain Age Conference on Saturday, October 8 at the Villagio Inn will explore these questions and much more. This one-day conference celebrates women in the prime of their lives. It is packed with dynamic speakers with thought provoking information, insights, high-level networking, and a chance to make new friends. There will be five inspiring speakers who are experts in their field and they will talk about finance, health, careers and women at midlife.

“The conference is for all women in the middle of their lives who may be seeking to change careers, find a career or “calling”, wondering how to fill an empty nest, ready for change, but not sure what that looks like, thinking about starting a business, seeking answers to health questions, in need of retirement and financial planning, in need of a better understanding of their finances, and most importantly this is for all women in the center of their lives who are open to meeting new friends and embracing new ideas,” states Sandra Call Sultan, principal of Call Productions, who is promoting the event.

Whether you’re a career woman, a mother, a wife, single or divorced, this forum will give you an opportunity to: celebrate your life experiences, expand your network, problem solve with a core group of peers, learn the latest about women’s health, hormones and healthy aging, boost your momentum – empower yourself, spend a day in a supportive environment with women who are willing and able to support your goals, and learn from experts in management, finance, health, career change, entrepreneurship and midlife.

“Revisiting our decisions and life choices is normal for this period of a woman’s life. For many of us midlife is a time of reflection and reevaluating who we were, who we are and who we want to be. No matter what choices we made or path we choose as young adults, each of us has made sacrifices and to look these losses in the eye, often leaves us with feelings of grief, regret or feelings of vulnerability. At this time of our life, like-minded others are essential and this conference is a vehicle to bring women of a certain age together to celebrate and to support who we are and where we are going,” states Ms. Call Sultan.

Registration begins at 9:00 a.m. at the Villagio Inn in Yountville, with the welcome session at 10:00 a.m. The morning session includes “Money Matters for Women – Start with the Heart” with Erin Kincheloe, followed by “Passion, Purpose or Plodding Along – Which Will You Choose For Your Career?” presented by Lauralyn Bauer & Suzanne Statler.

The lunch break will include a list of restaurants within walking distance of the conference, and attendees may go on their own or they may organize into groups and go to lunch together. Recommended topics to be discussed are: 1) Career Change 2) Career Re-entry 3) Balancing Act: family & career 4) Common Cents & Finances 5) Healthy Woman 6) Starting Your Own Business.

The afternoon sessions are “Menopause – Everything You Wanted to Ask and Now You Can,” with Dr. Susana Gonzalez and the final afternoon presentation is “Inventing the Rest of Our Lives” Women in Second Adulthood, presented by Suzanne Braun Levine. At the closing reception opportunities are available for: book signing & sales, compliments of David Rawson of Copperfield Books, a free individual coaching session with a certified coach at a later date, participation in a group coaching session at a later date, networking with mentors or leaders in the community and mingling with new contacts and friends.
